

Where Are You God

By Andrew Pell

Dearest Child

“My light extends beyond the fathomless galaxies of space.
Yet my delight in my mind is to talk to you and behold your face.

My light can be found in the deepest caverns beneath the sea.

But there even the serpents and fish know of me.

My light can also be seen on the highest mountain.

My light is real and my words are like a crystal fountain.

You my child are too preoccupied with time and deadlines,

Yet my expanding universe does not have deadlines, but the synchronicity is fine.

Sometime life does not always go according to plan.

Circumstances can change but remember I am holding your hand.

I am with you there in your darkest night.

Following the darkness there is my radiant illuminating light.”

You ask me, “Where are you God ” “I am here”

I am always near and as such there is no need for fear.
