

Do You Serve Frogs At this French Restaurant?

By Mark Edgemon

Bonjour, monsieur, pardon me, do you serve frogs,
At this Gourmet French restaurant? I ask that being a frog myself,
Not a crude, rough description of a Frenchman in World War II,
But one of an amphibian kind, if you don't mind, Si vous plait.

How are your crickets today? No, I'm not referring to the cell phone.
Escargot? No snails please, I am not that desperate.
I'll have fly soup for an appetizer, please, thank you.
Is this place expensive? I do not want to "croak" when I see the bill!

Wait a minute; there are no flies in my soup. I've been cheated!
Crème of what?...larva, that's not what I ordered!
Take it back and just bring me some fruit flies with whipped topping.
You're out! My wife and I are out of here! We're going bar hopping!

The End
