

Let's Talk About God

By Robin Lipinski

Interesting perspective, this being.
Holding a title, 'King of Kings.'
Creating a universe, complete, in only days, but what is a day; eternity?
Receiving prayers from many,
Also,
A lot of blame.

Poems, stories, religions, all based on He.
Some relating to She and other ideas,
But we're human,
We hardly know anything.

"Why would God allow evil?"
"Surely he must know better?"
This coming those professing some belief.

From those who deny Him,
Laughing gives them relief,
Finding it easy to mock what is a pillar in others faith.

Freedom given, freedom won,
Living as we please,
For all we know we know very little,
Especially about our King.

No matter what we're taught.
No matter what we're shown.
It matters not to God that we refuse Him,
As for the existence of a Truth so simple to even the youngest of children,
He knows.

The End