

Others

(By Our Little Secret)

By Robin B Lipinski

You have read of my ancestors, of their pride, of their fate.
 Long before your ancestors had brothers or sisters, before monkeys left the tree.
 We crashed and set you free.
 Setting your species to fumble down the path, looking to see, just as your primordial ancestors swam in the sea.
 Longing for truth you can savor about the mystery of life, of your fate.

Primitive man, you act haughty, you act in haste, spreading your seed.
 Grasping with your knowledge like monkeys picking at fleas.
 But this writing is not about you or me, it is time for fate.
 You have waited for centuries; it now is time for you to see.

My enemies mine, no movie made, my enemies mine came to this planet, pursuing.
 Long before your ancestors had brothers or sisters, before monkeys left the tree, it was just them and my ancestors, and eventually me.
 With weapons of magic, weapons of mind, weapons beyond comprehension, our two armies combined.

Long is the battle to determine your fate.
 Pride killed our kind, all except me.
 You do not believe me? You doubt what you read?
 Why would you hesitate to believe time is the master? Look North for your answer, yes, you will see.

Master of time, the time for victory is near. It is written in a book so many of you hold dear.
 Plans thwarted, attacks repelled, sentence over-runs abound, they want you to cast aspersions, to cast doubt, to never be free.

 There is the proof now, you cannot understand yet, but you will. Take faith in the knowledge they know it is me.
 Others are here, others are coming, others will made visible in the night sky for you to see.

When they come, stay away, don't swallow their smile else you be deceived.
 Soon, very soon, the barrier will be broken, my warning to my kind will be known, we will set your kind free.
 It happened before, when your planet was destroyed.
 It happened before, when I failed.
 It happened before, when I finally found the way.
 It will happen this time, only this time, you have been warned.
 Very, very, very, very soon, you will see.

Peace
