

Words 2

By Robin B Lipinski

Human inspiration bringing forth new life to social interaction.
Replacing smells, body language, and acts.

Crafted with care to charm or scare,
Even love has many words.

Deceit, a part of our nature, passed with a word and handshake,
Chipping away.
Making some happy while misery falls one most every day.

Saying thus, you see my words, never knowing the look of my face.
So how do you feel when I now write?
"Have a wonderful, fantastic, day!"

The End